

S. Thomas's

Hospital.

ALBERT EMBANKMENT,
LONDON, S.E.

April. 1901.

Miss Lillian Roberts entered the Nightingale Training Home for Nurses at St. Thomas's Hospital in June 1897 & since then has devoted her entire time to nursing.

She has had very large & varied experience in all branches of nursing - medical, surgical & gynecological, having performed the duties of Day & Night

Staff Nurse, with complete control of patients in both the medical & surgical wards. She has also had considerable experience with the infectious fevers - Scarlet Fever, Measles, Diphtheria, Typhoid etc & for some months was on duty in the private paying Home attached to the hospital. I have had abundant opportunities of observing her work & have formed the very highest opinion of her character & ability as a thoroughly trained nurse. She is particularly kind to her patients & most pleasant to work with.

A. E. Russell,
M.D. Lond., M.R.C.P.
Resident Assistant Physician
St. Thomas's Hospital

Miss Lilian Roberts entered the Nightingale Training Home for Nurses at St. Thomas's Hospital in June 1897 and since then has devoted her entire time to nursing.

She has had a very large and varied experience in all branches of nursing – medical, surgical and gynaecological, having performed the duties of Day and Night Staff Nurse, with complete control of patients in both the medical and surgical wards.

She has also had considerable experience with the infectious fevers, Scarlet Fever, Measles, Diphtheria, Typhoid etc. and for some months was on duty in the private paying home attached to the hospital. I have had abundant opportunities of observing her work and have formed the very highest opinion of her character and ability as a thoroughly trained nurse. She is painstakingly kind to her patients and most pleasant to work with.

A.E. Russell
M.D. Lond., M.R.C.P.
Resident Assistant Physician
St. Thomas's Hospital